Tradies Needed

It's been tough times for the Vietnam Veterans Federation, with the upkeep of premise maintenance a task beyond their capacity. They have been struggling to find qualified tradesmen who are willing to freely give up their time to help with building construction at their Nerang Veteran Community Complex.

Volunteering Gold Coast (VGC) have put the call out for all areas of construction – from electricians, plumbers, concreters and roofers to horticulturalists for landscaping the gardens.

VGC Public Relations Officer Chantel Charchalis states, "Any one in these areas who have spare time during the week and would be happy to volunteer their time to help out."

"We are continuously recruiting volunteers across a broad range of position descriptions, although very rarely do we ever come across tradesmen positions."

"This makes it quite difficult to find a tradesman volunteer who is qualified in a specific field when a position such as this one with Vietnam Veterans is entered into our database."

"This is a fabulous way for tradesmen to help out a valuable community organisation, with the opportunity for an on-going relationship which will see advertising benefits for their own company logo."

Malcom Wheat at Vietnam Veterans Federation states "we are happy to have the volunteer company's signage on our buildings once they are complete."

Those interested in this volunteer position are urged to contact the Volunteering Gold Coast office on 5526 2811 and quote job number 4229.
